Dave Johnson is the primary singer and songwriter for the Chicago based roots-rock/Americana band Midwestern Lull on Railway Records. Johnson strums acoustic jangle-folk-pop songs citing Neil Young, the Jayhawks and The Band as major influences. A review from garageband.com named him "a songwriter for our times."

Midwestern Lull is a five piece band that can fit on any stage, no matter how small. The band plays vintage roots-rock where melody is king. Originally from Kalamazoo MI, the band started splitting their time between home and Chicago when members migrated to Chicago and helped launch Railway Records.
